About the YFile User Manual

YFile is York University’s journal of record and campus newsletter, reporting on institutional news, events, people and trends. All content is published to the YFile website and distributed through an email newsletter to more than 6,000 subscribers, including faculty, staff members, students and external stakeholders. The YFile team works together with the University’s Faculties, schools, departments and units to share important news and announcements. The YFile User Manual is a resource for content creators across the University to offer guidance on submitting content to YFile.

YFile adheres to the York University Writing Style Guide (the Writing Style Guide), a document approved by the University Senate and the president. The Writing Style Guide closely follows the Canadian Press Stylebook, which can be found here.

In addition to the Writing Style Guide, YFile has its own unique set of rules and conventions for writing and publication, as outlined in alphabetical order below. For more information on YFile’s mandate and YFile contact information, visit the About page on YFile’s website.

Advertisements

The YFile email newsletter includes small ads and a large footer ad to help promote important events, announcements, and news at York University.

Deadlines: A request for an ad space in the YFile email newsletter should be submitted at minimum five (5) days in advance of the newsletter publication date.

Requirements for small square ad: An image in JPG format of at minimum 800 by 800 pixels.

Requirements for large footer ad: An image in JPG format of at minimum 1,200 pixels wide by 600 pixels high and an active hyperlink that the ad can redirect to. Advertisements appearing in YFile must align with York University’s Brand Standards. For assistance ensuring your advertisement meets Brand Standards, contact University Brand & Marketing and include your Faculty or division communications manager in your request. Information about Brand Standards can be found on the Brand Assets website.

Approvals

All content submitted to YFile should be pre-approved by the appropriate people (e.g. members of senior leadership, deans, directors, persons quoted directly) and submitted to YFile at least five (5) days in advance of the newsletter publication date. The submitted copy will be reviewed by the YFile editorial team to ensure it aligns with editorial standards. If approvals are required after review by YFile editors, this must be stated at the time the content is submitted. In those instances, final approved copy must be returned to YFile two (2) days before publication.

Archives
YFile is the journal of record of York University. The publication has an established reputation for reliable reporting and is the source of trusted, relevant and authoritative news for the University. YFile stories are archived both online and in the digital archives of the Clara Thomas Archives and Special Collections to help YFile users search and locate previously published content.

Content: YFile stories are archived on the YFile website, and date back to 2002. Please use the search function on the website to access the archives.

Newsletters: YFile’s newsletter issues are archived on the YFile website, and date back to September 2021.

Revisions to archived content: A request to alter or remove an archived news story will only be considered if the story and/or image pose a threat to personal safety. Because YFile content is archived as official records for the University, requests to alter or remove an archived news story cannot be considered if the request changes the story in such a significant way that it alters the original news and/or if the requester wishes to update an image, include their current role or add a fact to reflect a current situation.

Search: YFile features an advanced search function that enables users to easily retrieve content dating back to 2002. Users can search by keyword and sort by category.

Awards/funding/grants
YFile aims to celebrate academic and research excellence at the University, which includes sharing news of awards, funding and grants. All achievements and recognitions are a point of pride for York University; however, coverage of such stories in YFile is limited to major announcements due to the high volume of requests. Stories on awards, funding and grants will be considered on a case-by-case basis, with the following criteria as guidelines for inclusion in YFile:

• Awards must be greater than $100,000.
• Major collaborative research projects awarded by government funding agencies will receive coverage; however, smaller Engage Grants (amounts not exceeding $25,000) will not be covered in a stand-alone story.

Bylines
Bylines are reserved for YFile staff members and freelance and special content contributors. Due to the detailed editing process, YFile does not offer bylines to York University Faculty/school/unit communications managers, faculty, other staff or students.
Exception: Bylines are accepted for content appearing in YFile special issues and special content as per previously agreed arrangements with the organizing unit/school/Faculty.

Corrections
YFile staff make significant attempts to fact-check and verify the accuracy of all published content to uphold its reputation as the University’s journal of record. All content is subject to review by two or more YFile and/or Communications & Public Affairs (C&PA) staff members. If there is a need for a correction, please direct requests to YFile staff outlining the error and the correct information, as well as the story’s headline and publication date. It is important to note that errors do happen on occasion, and the YFile team appreciates alerts from the community when an error does occur. YFile’s goal is to respond to errors as quickly as possible. Note: Please read the “Revisions to archived content” notation in the “Archives” section above for YFile’s policy on revising archived content.

Deadlines
When submitting content to YFile, please remember that YFile staff need ample time for the editorial review process, which includes story evaluation, copy editing, fact-checking and proofreading.

Initial submission of content: Please submit content a minimum of five (5) days prior to preferred publication date.

Final, approved copy: Please return final, approved copy two (2) days prior to publication. Content submitted the day before publication will be deferred to a later issue.

Submissions to YFile should be made using the online story submission form.

Late-breaking news: YFile staff make every effort to accommodate requests for specific publishing dates; however, the arrival of late-breaking news and announcements may shift the editorial lineup with little notice.

YFile staff work 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday to Friday. On occasion, and with advance warning, YFile can publish late-breaking institutional news after normal working hours. However, since overtime will be incurred, the Faculty/department/unit making the request must have approval from the Communications & Public Affairs Division’s director of strategic and internal communications, Jacqueline Janelle, before YFile staff can proceed.

Embargoes
YFile adheres to all external and internal embargoes. Please clearly communicate any embargoes to the YFile team when the story is submitted or before the story is developed.
Events calendar
All events included in YFile’s Upcoming Events section are pulled directly from the University’s central events calendar. Special requests can be made for events to be highlighted as featured events on the York University homepage to encourage attendance; however, not all featured event requests can be accommodated, as space is limited. To make a request, contact the YFile team. Note: Depending on the number of submissions being received and the time of year, it can take up to two (2) days for a submitted event listing to appear on the calendar.

Event coverage
YFile staff provide event coverage for high-profile, pan-University events such as major funding announcements, building dedications or presidential events. Requests for coverage should be made at least 10 days in advance to allow staff to plan. All other events can be submitted in advance to the York University central events calendar. Please see the “Events calendar” section above for more details. Key events for Faculties, such as special lectures, performances, conferences and symposia, can be promoted by YFile staff in advance.

Multi-campus event coverage: For coverage of high-profile, pan-University events taking place at the Glendon Campus and/or Markham Campus, please send a request at least 10 days in advance, and if applicable, copy the appropriate communications manager for the campus location.

Post-event coverage: Requests for/submissions of post-event coverage will be considered for inclusion in YFile if the event meets the following criteria:
- it is of interest to a wide or pan-University audience; and
- it has occurred within the past two (2) weeks.
Requests/submissions that do not meet these criteria should be included on the Faculty/school/unit website and co-ordinated with the Faculty/school/unit communications manager.

Images
AODA: All images must be compliant with the Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act (AODA). For more information, visit the AODA website or York's accessibility guidelines.

Captions (cutlines): All images submitted to YFile must include correct caption information, including the correct full names and titles of people in the order that they appear.

Credits: All images submitted to YFile must include image credit information (the photographer or the source of the image, along with permission to use the image in YFile). Images without source information will not be included in the publication.

Format: All images must be submitted in JPG format. YFile does not include PDF, PNG, TIFF, GIF or other formats in its publication. PDFs: Portable document files (PDFs) cannot be posted in YFile or in the events calendar, as they are not AODA compliant.
Permissions: Externally sourced images may only be submitted to YFile with permission from the photographer or the source of the image. Images should be free from personal details such as family members, wedding or holiday backgrounds, or group settings where permission from other individuals shown in the image has not been secured.

Sizes: Image size requirements for ads are outlined in the “Advertisements” section above; any other image submitted to YFile must be a minimum of 500 by 500 pixels.

Students/minors: Images that include students will only be published with the understanding that the person/unit submitting the photo has ensured proper permissions and media release forms have been secured. These records should be maintained by the submitting party; YFile does not maintain these records.

LCD screens
Select YFile stories and University events that are open to the community are highlighted in the York News section of the campus-wide LCD screens. To request LCD screen coverage for your upcoming event, it must first be submitted as an event listing to the York University central events calendar (see “Events calendar” section above). After your event is posted to the calendar, contact the YFile team with the link to your event listing and a suitable image (500 by 500 pixels). Note: Not all LCD screen requests can be accommodated, as space is limited to 15 news items on the network. Requests should be sent to yfile@yorku.ca with the subject line “LCD request.”

Publication schedule
As of September 2021, the publication schedule for YFile is as follows:
September to June: YFile publishes three (3) times a week, on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday.
July and August: YFile publishes two (2) times a week, on Monday and Thursday.
Special issues: Special issues run on select Fridays, and occasionally on other days.
Note: The publication schedule is subject to change and will be kept up to date on YFile’s About YFile webpage.

Social media
For requests pertaining to social media, please contact the Communications & Public Affairs Division’s digital marketing manager, Jason Miller.

Story content and common inquiries
This section answers frequently asked questions about writing style that YFile receives from content creators across the University.

Bold font: Names of those affiliated with York University will appear in bold on first reference.

Capitalization: Capitalization rules outlined in the Writing Style Guide will be followed. Some common capitalization rules include:
- Job titles: A person’s job title is only capitalized if it precedes the person’s name (exception: honorific titles such as Distinguished Research Professor).
  - Note: The title “Dr.” is only used for certain health-care professionals, as outlined in the Writing Style Guide.
- Subjects: Subjects (areas of study) are not capitalized unless in reference to a department, Faculty, unit or school (e.g. science versus Faculty of Science; anthropology versus Department of Anthropology).

Headlines: Headlines for YFile should be written in present tense using active verbs when possible. Headlines should be limited to 70 characters. For other style considerations on headlines, refer to the Canadian Press Stylebook.

Length: Stories submitted to YFile should be about 400 words and no more than 750 words. Long-format stories are occasionally published in YFile. These story ideas are developed in advance, and support the University’s academic priorities, the University’s core values and the four pillars that guide the University’s vision. All stories and story ideas should be submitted to YFile through the online story submission form.

Possessive adjectives, subject and pronouns: The use of first- and second-person possessive adjectives, subjects and pronouns are generally avoided in YFile stories and will be subject to revision by YFile staff. Please avoid the use of the following: “I, we, you, mine, ours, yours, my, our, your.”

Exception: These can be included in direct quotes.

Exception: If the story is presented as a statement or announcement that is attributed to a person or persons, these adjectives, subjects and pronouns can be included.

Quote attributions: A direct quote can only be attributed to one source/speaker. A direct quote cannot be attributed to a group of people or a group of authors. In an instance when a direct quote is taken from a published work, the title of the work will be attributed, or it will be referred to as “the paper” or “the study.” Where a person is attributed in a direct quote, the attribution must include a full name (first and last) and cannot be anonymous.

Exception: If the person attributed has been identified with first and last name in the story before the quote appears, the direct quote can be attributed using the last name only.

Linking to sources: Wherever possible, link to a primary source for information (e.g. government, World Health Organization etc.). If a primary source is not available, link to a reputable secondary source such as the Globe and Mail, CBC News or the Toronto Star. Links to blogs, Wikipedia or other unofficial sources will not be included. From a style perspective, links must be clearly identified and should be included in parenthesis at the end of the sentence. For example, “However, many hadn’t predicted just how rapid the pace would be (see TVOntario July 8).”

Story submissions

YFile has an online story submission form available to assist with organizing requests.
To better serve all Faculties and departments, story requests should be discussed with the Faculty or departmental communications managers before submitting to YFile.

YFile’s mission is to support York University’s goals and objectives by celebrating academic and research excellence, student success, community engagement, teaching and learning. To ensure York news is shared with the right audience, YFile works closely with C&PA’s Media Relations team. Please remember to share your story ideas with Media Relations for news about upcoming studies, grants, funding and major announcements. If your story is selected for external amplification by Media Relations, YFile will respect any embargoes set by the Media Relations team. For more on embargoes, visit the “Embargoes” section above.

Is your story a good for for YFile? YFile is a small but mighty team that includes three professional journalists who use their editorial expertise to select stories that fit the publication’s mandate as York University’s official journal of record. Some of the criteria the team evaluates in the editorial review process include newsworthiness, timeliness, relevance to the York community, impact on the York community, balance in content and factors influencing reputation. As well, YFile encourages stories that support the University’s academic priorities, the University’s core values and the four pillars that guide the University’s vision.

Subscriptions

YFile is published by York University's Communications & Public Affairs Division (C&PA) and distributed by email newsletter to more than 6,000 faculty, staff, students, alumni and friends of the University. A subscription includes regular issues of YFile as well as special issues. Subscribe to YFile here.

Tagging

YFile follows specific tagging conventions that align with the University’s overall tagging strategy. For more about YFile’s tagging conventions, please refer to this document. There is an accepted and approved list of YFile master tags. York University communications staff and content creators are welcome to suggest up to five (5) additional tags to be assigned to a their YFile story and can do so using the online story submission form.

Videos

Videos can be included in YFile stories on the YFile website as embedded properties from YouTube that are shareable with an embed code. Videos cannot be included in the YFile email newsletter. Requests for video creation should be directed to the appropriate Faculty or departmental communications manager.

Website sections

The Scoop

The Scoop is a section in YFile that is used to highlight headlines about the people of York University. It features a headshot and a headline that links to an external website. The Scoop requires a high-resolution JPG headshot image (minimum 800 by 800 pixels) and an active link. to an external site that gives the reader additional information related to the headline. To submit an item to The Scoop, please use YFile’s online story form and specify your request.

Spotlight@York

Spotlight@York is a section that highlights content celebrating York University. It features a large photo and a headline that links to either a published YFile story or another website. Spotlight@York requires a high-resolution JPG image (1,800 by 600 pixels) and an active link to a previously published YFile story or other website that gives the reader additional information related to the headline. To submit content for consideration in the Spotlight@York section, please use YFile's online story submission form and specify your request.

Special note: YFile is excited to launch this section beginning Sept. 15, 2021. Some examples of content YFile would suggest for this section are: the launch of the University Academic Plan 2020 website; the promotion of a special issue of YFile; a link to a photo gallery or story on convocation; a feature story highlighting York community members.

York In Focus

York In Focus is a section that highlights York content that continues to be relevant for some time (evergreen content), or news we would like to continue to celebrate. It features a large photo, a headline and an excerpt. The photo and headline both link to a published YFile story or external website. York In Focus requires a high-resolution JPG image (1,800 by 600 pixels). To submit an item for consideration in the York In Focus section, use YFile's online story submission form and specify your request.

Special note: YFile is excited to launch this as a new section beginning Sept. 15, 2021. Some examples of content YFile would suggest for this section include: major funding announcements; the opening of Markham Campus or building dedications; major awards granted to York people and projects; innovation in teaching and learning; and York success stories.
